

Semaphores were used in this app to sync up the two threads in a way such that FredSee() ran before WilmaSaw(). This was achieved by having fredSem initialized to 1 and wilmaSem initialized to 0. When FredSee() ran, it acquired fredSem then released wilmaSem and vice versa. This causes a back and forth effect where they can run one after another.